

Monday, March 24, 2008

Professional Blogs

In an attempt to keep my blog a little more professional, I have removed some old entries and more of the stupid ones. Anyway, I'm trying to keep the blog a little more towards programming and writing so that there might actually be some categorization. My blog allows for categories, but the last time I turned them on it didn't seem to work. Oh, well. Sorry to those of you looking for the design plans to the atom bomb. I don't post that stuff.

I'll try to keep it interesting. I apologize in advance if I numb your skull with boredom.

Posted by Rory Brown at 20:46